Town's 1952 Appropriations Reach New High Mark

Here is the group of budding ball players who assembled at the Case Memorial cage, Phillips academy, to try out for positions on the Andover Cardinals team which will be the town's entry in the Little League this season. The team is being sponsored by the Andover Boosters' club and will swing into action in a few weeks when the league season opens. (Look Photo)

Little League Candidates Work Out At Case Cage

Andover's Little Leaguers have had several work-outs in the Case Memorial cage under the direction of Tom Low, head coach, and his assistants Carl Erler, James Bissett, James Platt, Hal Wennik, Mickey Walker and Charles O. McCullom.

Over 115 boys have registered and from all appearances the Andover Cardinals should have a well balanced squad.

According to the coaches there will be no cuts in order that a better screening may be done when the squad gets outdoors. Director McCullom hopes after Wednesday night, when a panel discussion was held on the Little League that the parents will understand how important it is that the fathers assist the coaches by serving on committees.

At that meeting 62 fathers signed up to help and were assigned to help the following committee chairmen: Uniforms, Norman Richardson; publicity, Dino G. Valz; collections, Gordon L. Colquhoun; transportation, Aubrey Polgreen; grounds, Walter Pearson; advertising, Harold Wennik; statistics, Emory Wescott; equipment, Roger Whitcomb; chief score keeper, John MacDon-

Motorists Dumping Refuse On Streets

Police are asking the cooperation of the public in apprehending motorists who dump refuse on streets of the town.

In the past week refuse has been found on Central, Andover and Woburn streets at various times, three separate lots having been dumped on Andover street.

Monday morning a crateful of empty whiskey bottles was found strewn over a section of Ballardvale road.

$4 Tax Rate Increase Seen

Andover's total appropriations for 1952 reach the record high mark of $1,390,632.15, an increase of $228,509.87 over a year ago as the result of action taken Monday night at the session of the town meeting postponed from a week ago.

This all-time high mark in the town's appropriations for department budgets and special articles follows closely the recommendations of the finance committee and indicate an estimated $4 increase in the tax rate from $40 to $44.

At the session Mar. 10 the meeting voted $1,268,860.65 for departments and $36,550 for special articles before adjourning to Mar. 17. At the adjourned meeting $85,221.50 more was voted for special articles.

Despite the increase over 1951 the effect on the tax rate was partially offset by the transfer of $20,000 of the overlay surplus to the reserve fund and voting $65,000 free cash to the assessors

Tree Dep't May Be Joined With Public Works Board

A move to consolidate the tree department into the board of public works was made at the postponed session of the town meeting Monday night.

This action, which was a big surprise to many in the auditorium, came on motion of C. Carleton Kimball of the Andover Taxpayers' association, which read as follows:

That the moderator appoint a committee of three to study the possibility of consolidating the tree department into the board of public works in order to achieve greater operating economies, the committee to report its findings at the next annual town meeting.

In explaining his motion which came up under the head of new business, Mr. Kimball said it was felt that such a plan would result eventually in great savings to the town.

George R. Abbot, tree warden, suggested that the committee study the advisability of putting the park department under the tree warden.

On a voice vote the result was questioned but on a standing vote Mr. Kimball's motion was carried 190 to 65.

Clarify Action On Sick Leave

The article granting sick leave to town employees other than those appointed by the school committee, was reconsidered for clarification at the adjourned session of the town meeting Monday night.

At the meeting the week before this article was adopted after considerable discussion. The sponsors, as explained by Roy E. Hardy, chairman of the board of selectmen, wanted to change the wording and the previous action was reconsidered.

The following motion was then read and accepted: Voted, that all full time employees of the town, other than those appointed by the

Good Government Day

Friday, Mar. 14 was Good Government day, the day when the representatives, one from each Massachusetts high school, meet at the state house and actually run the government in various positions chosen by lot.

Raeburn Hathaway, elected by the Punchard student body as its representative, served as state commissioner of public health.

Assemblies

A special meeting was called Tuesday morning of all the class officers, the members of three social committees, the officers of the band, the P. A. A. dues homeroom collectors, and the members of the student council. The purpose of this meeting was to get the school leaders to urge their classmates to pay the P. A. A. dues, since the dues are the chief means of support of most class activities.

Mrs. Alan Gillingham was guest speaker at an assembly for girls Monday. Mrs. Gillingham spoke on the responsibilities of a babysitter.

Teachers' Association Activities

Every Wednesday afternoon several members of the faculty take an oil painting class, taught by Mrs. Austin O'Toole. Residents of Andover are welcome to join this class; meetings are held beginning at 3 o'clock in the Junior High art room. This course has been arranged by the Andover Teachers' Association and is being given free of charge, as one of the activities of the Adult Evening school.

A very enthusiastic group of teachers are members of the bowling league which meets every Monday at 3:30 p.m. at the Andover Recreation center. Another activity of the Teachers' Association, this group is under the direction of Miss Helen Loux, chairman of the athletic committee.

State Drama Festival

A group of Punchard thespians are preparing for the school entry in the Massachusetts High School Drama Festival this weekend. A cast of seven will present the English play, "Among Those Present", at Lynn Classical high school Saturday. Approximately 12 schools will compete in the Northeastern sectional meet at Lynn, while seven schools will participate in the Southeastern meet at B. M. C. Durfee High in Fall River and six schools in the Western part of the state at Northampton High.

Nine schools from these three sections will compete in the state finals to be held at Punchard Apr. 4 and 5.

Mervin E. Stevens is directing the Punchard cast; Sally Seinwerth is the prompter and Cal Hatch, the stage manager.

The members of the "Among Those Present" group are as follows: Jim Murray, Gladys Thomson Janet Thompson, Dorcas Johnston, Louis Mirisola, Joyce Mowatt, Rae Hathaway.

It's next to impossible to keep a bright person in the dark.

"Music On Film" At Library Mar. 21

Music lovers will be interested in the first evening of the film festival programs at the Memorial Hall library, Monday, Mar. 24, at 7:45 p.m.

The entire program has been planned about the theme "Music On Film." Two are dance films – "Moor's Pavane" and "Fable Of The Peacock." The first is a variation on the theme of Othello, translated into dance by Jose Limon and his group. This is photographed against a black backdrop and shows to advantage the strikingly colored robes. "The Fable of the Peacock" is an ethnic dance of India, danced and narrated by Lakshimi Wana Singh. It demonstrates stylized hand gestures and body movements common to East Indian ceremonial dances. The story concerns the judgment of the peacock for his vanity.

In "Invitation To Music" one sees the backstage preparation for the annual May music festival in Florence, Italy, which includes a dress rehearsal of the opera "Il Trovatore," and routines by the ballet company.

Surrounded by the statuary of the Belvedere Castle, Vienna, the Vienna Philharmonic orchestra plays Beethoven's masterpiece in the short film "Egmont Overture."

Norman McLaren uses animation to interpret a modern jazz composition performed by the Oscar Peterson trio in "Begone Dull Care," which has been called the best experimental film of 1949.

The public is cordially invited. There is no charge for the series.

1952 APPROPRIATIONS REACH NEW HIGH

to reduce the 1952 tax rate.

Moderator Arthur Sweeney presided at the meeting. The official attendance taken from the number checked at the door was 337.

The meeting opened by taking up Article 18 to see if the town would extend the 16-inch low pressure service from the end of Phillips street to the Bancroft road pumping station, and appropriate $55,000 for the work, of which $25,000 would be raised by taxation from the 1952 levy and $30,000 be transferred from available funds in the treasury.

John F. O'Connell moved that this be postponed to a future annual town meeting. Chairman Sidney P. White of the board of public works said that this section will complete the new 16-inch line started from Haggett's pond in 1945. He felt that it could not be constructed at a lower figure in the future. The article, he said, had been studied and approved by the finance committee and the Andover Taxpayers association. He pointed out that the town is growing, 135 new homes were constructed last year, 550 in the past three years, and the draught on the water supply getting greater each year.

The motion to postpone action was lost and the article was accepted.

Under Article 21 it was voted to purchase a rubber-tired tractor for the board of public works with snow plow attachments for sidewalk use.

Article 29 was next considered. This called for a new tractor with mower attachments for the tree department. After much discussion and over the objection of George R. Abbott, tree warden, it was voted to amend the article to buy mower attachments for the tractor to be purchased under Article 21 the board of public works to use in the winter time for plowing and the tree department to use it in summer for cutting brush and other tree department work.

It was voted to approve Article 25 for a sewer in Magnolia avenue. It was pointed out that the cost of construction is automatically levied against the abuttors. In this case it was estimated that it would be $2.25 per running foot. All abuttors favored the article.

Several abuttors objected to the proposed sewer on Lincoln street and this was finally referred to the board of public works for further study.

Under Article 27 it was stated that certain legal steps necessary to be taken before such action is taken, had not been complied with and the article was passed over. Article 28 was stricken from the warrant. The street has not been accepted by the town.

At the close of the meeting Atty. Thomas D. Burns inquired about reported increases to school teachers. It was explained that teachers work on a salary schedule and increments were granted annually until they reach a maximum in their schedules, which is a universal custom.

The meeting turned down an article to appropriate $400 for a display of fireworks on Independence day. Cmdr. Albert Cole Jr., of Andover post, 8, American Legion, explained that if passed the Legion would stage a celebration on the Fourth so that people who remained at home on that holiday would have some attraction here instead of having the town "dead" on such an occasion as it has been so many years in the past.

The meeting adjourned at 9:10 p.m.

Optimism should revive with the arrival of new seed catalogs.

Ft. McKinley Bodies To Be Disinterred

Disinternment of all remains buried in the post cemetery, Fort McKinley, Me., will begin about June 1, First Army headquarters announced today. Reinternment will be in the Long Island national cemetery, Farmingdale, N.Y.

Next-of-kin desiring reburial in a private cemetery should communicate as soon as possible with the First Army Quartermaster, Governors Island, New York 4, N. Y. In such cases, next-of-kin must assume custody of remains at graveside and be responsible for private reinternment. Although the army will pay all disinternment costs, private reburial expense must be borne by next-of-kin.

Private headstones now in place may be released with the remains for replacement in a private cemetery. Headstone removal costs must also be borne by next-of-kin.

The expense of removal, reburial and the erection of standard headstones in the national cemetery at Farmingdale will be borne by the government. Private headstones are not permitted in the Long Island national cemetery.

Cemetery records at Fort McKinley date back to 1901 and are considered obsolete and incomplete. Original contact with next-of-kin by First Army headquarters therefore may be limited to this notice.

Fort McKinley, located two miles south of Portland, was declared excess to the needs of the army in February 1950.

What Our Readers Say—

TOWN MEETING THOUGHTS

Editor of the Townsman:

If a youngster of high-school age asked you how the recent town meeting went, what would you tell him?

You could tell him that town meeting has elements of the sublime: government by the people, rule of the majority with rights of each minority jealously guarded, officials accountable to the people as the source of all authority, prince and pauper on basis of absolute equality, persuasion without coercion, the right of every citizen to question any proposal, forum for public discussion of public affairs, the prevailing sense of fair play, the feeling of pride in good government, political freedom because the people have freedom of choice. The most revealing moment at the recent meeting may have been when a voter asked for and received an explanation of a trivial sum while hundreds of citizens respectfully waited. This symbolizes the culmination of a centuries-long struggle for freedom from political tyranny.

If you told our student that, you would be telling him the truth but not the whole truth, for town meeting sometimes falls short of its possibilities. Let me give you an example.

This town elects only five school officials. This group directs the most important and most expensive job in our community — the education of our children. Although only they are accountable to the people for policy, results and costs, this committee comes to our annual business meeting without a single word of explanation for its stewardship for last year or plans for the current year. This taciturn attitude, I think, is out of harmony with the democratic way of conducting the public's business.

Intended perhaps as a substitute for oral explanations, our committee makes available a curious document entitled "Annual Report of the School Committee." In its 36 pages you will find such information as who won the spelling prizes in grade five and what songs were sung at commencement. Printed there are reports of the committee's employees ranging from the superintendant to the hygienist and truant officer. But where is your committee's report? The statement on page six is merely an evasion. Hasn't the school committee a single idea of its own which it is willing to share with the people of this town? How are you going to explain such official reticence to our student, Mr. Editor?

I think two changes in town-meeting procedure will help to correct weaknesses. Because town meeting can be sublime, it is absurd to profess to teach the meaning of democracy in our schools and then forbid our citizens of tomorrow to witness our best example of democracy in action. This iron curtain should be torn down to permit one class per year to attend town meeting as a separate group. Secondly, the school budget should be taken up at a separate meeting in order to provide ample time for full discussion of this most important business.

If these changes were made, we could answer Junior's question with fewer mental reservations.

Watch Presented To Coach Barton

In honor of his success with nine local basketball teams which he coached this season, Joseph L. Barton of 38 Florence st., last week was presented with a wrist watch at a testimonial arranged by fathers of the boys. Mrs. Barton was remembered with a sterling silver choker, bracelet and ear rings.

The last time you picked up your telephone, where did you call? The drugstore? Office? Grocer? Garage? Hairdresser? A friend?

Your call, to any one of these local places, cost you only a few cents, yet it saved you time, steps, or a possible trip in the car.

Your telephone is one of the outstanding conveniences of our modern way of life. Today, it's a bigger value than ever.

As in all businesses, rising costs have meant higher rates, yet today, with the increases in costs of so many things greater than telephone rate increases, the average telephone bill actually takes a smaller part of the family budget than it did 10 years ago.

Some people who have applied for telephone service are still without it because we lack necessary equipment. To correct this situation is one of our major projects.

Some who do have service, however, are inclined to forget or overlook the telephone's real worth. It is only to such users that reference is made here to the value of telephone service.

The Tax Bite

Everyone, right down to those in the low income brackets, feels the tremendous burden of present-day taxation. Everyone kicks about it. But there is one phase of the tax problem which is given much less consideration than it deserves – and that is what it is doing to the whole financial structure of the nation.

Economic Intelligence, a publication of the chamber of commerce of the United States, dealt with this when it said, "Steeply progressive taxation has virtually dried up the sources of venture capital, so essential for launching new enterprises. It has become more and more difficult, therefore, for the exceptional man, the ambitious employee, the man with a new idea, to set himself up in his own business. And such activities have been the traditional well springs of our American way of life."

Taxes now take close to one-third of the entire national income – which means that, on the average, each of us works one day out of three for the government.

Information For Veterans

Q – I get a $120-a-month pension from VA because of a non-service-connected disability that has left me so helpless that I need the regular aid of another person. I'm supposed to enter a VA hospital soon for treatment. Will the payments of $120 a month go on while I am hospitalized?

A – No. While you are receiving VA hospital care, you will be paid only the basic rate of pension, and not the additional amount paid to those in need of constant aid and attendance. Basic rates are $60 a month, going up to $72 after the veteran has been on the rolls for ten years or when he reaches age 65.

Q – Will I have to take a physical examination in order to apply for the new form of non-convertible term insurance available to Korean veterans?

A – No physical examination is required for that insurance. But you must apply in writing to VA in Washington, D.C., within 120 days after your release or separation from service, and pay the required first premium.

Q–I'm a married veteran, training under the GI Bill, and I've just been rated as 60 percent disabled by VA. Will VA pay me both the extra amount of disability compensation that goes to those with dependents, plus the higher rate of GI subsistence for veterans with families?

A–No. Instead, VA will pay you either one of the extra amounts for veterans with dependents—but not both. You have the right to choose whichever extra payment you wish to receive.

Q–I plan to get a GI home loan, and I'd like to find out what would happen in case I fail to make my loan payments. I don't expect to default, of course, but I do want to learn all the aspects.

A–Failure to make your loan payments may lead to foreclosure and loss of your home. Also, if the government is required to pay a claim because of your failure to meet payments, you will become indebted to the government for the amount of any such claim.

Punchard Loses In Tech Tourney

Punchard was knocked out of the Eastern Massachusetts Class C basketball tournament at the Boston Garden Friday afternoon by a fast-stepping Provincetown team that ran away to a 58 – 35 victory. Provincetown in the tournament for the fourth time in seven years, then went on to win the Class C title by swamping Scituate 54 – 39 Saturday.

In the game Friday Punchard trailed 8 – 15 at the end of the first period but thrilled its band of rooters by pulling up even as the half ended. With the score 25-all the Cape Codders put on a third period rally that left the Blue and Gold trailing well in the rear as Punchard tallied only 6 points in the third and 4 in the final period.

Provincetown is a real jinx for the local quintet. A year ago the Cape team took the Class C semi-finals from Punchard 49 – 40, and in 1948 took a 43 – 31 decision from the locals in the opening round of the tournament.

Durfee High of Fall River won the Class A title in the tournament and Winchester took the Class B championship.

"No poor man could have done that," said Police Chief Dane who noted the bottles bore brands of expensive whiskies.

Persons who take the registration number of motorists seen dumping refuse on the streets and report to the police can be assured, police say, that their names will not be mentioned.

There is a fine of $25 for such violations, Chief Dane pointed out, and he is determined that any offenders found here will be brought into court.
